As a result, the Journal of Management Studies has been able to publish a wide range of research, including studies that have been critical of the dominant paradigm. This has been a key factor in the journal's success, as it has been able to attract a wide range of authors and readers. The journal's success can be attributed to a number of factors, including its focus on high-quality research, its commitment to publishing research that is critical of the dominant paradigm, and its commitment to publishing research that is relevant to the field of management studies. The journal's success has also been a result of its commitment to publishing research that is accessible to a wide range of readers, including those who are not specialists in the field of management studies. The journal's success has also been a result of its commitment to publishing research that is relevant to the field of management studies, including research that has been critical of the dominant paradigm.
